Prominent Attorney Dead

Kansas City, Oct. 29--James Black, a prominent corporation attorney, dropped dead of apoplexy today in the county court while trying a case. He was a well known politician and was 40 years of age.

Henry E. Jones of Tampa, Fla. writes: I can thank God for my present health, due to Foley's Kidney Cure. I tried kidney cures, but nothing done me much good till I took Foley's Kidney Cure. Four bottles cured me, and I have no more pain in my back and shoulders. I am 62 years old, and suffered long, but thanks to Foley's Kidney Cure I am well and can walk and enjoy myself. It is a pleasure to recommend it to those needing a kidney medicine. A. P. Owens.

Horace Stone, operator at the Frisco depot is a very clever fellow and handles his work promptly and accurately.

FOR THE INVALID.

APPETIZING AND EASILY PREPARED DISHES.

Beef Tea, Chicken Broth, and the Like, Are No Longer Considered the Only Proper Food for a Sick Person.

Upon the subject of invalid cookery there seems to be a woeful amount of ignorance, and the lack of interest in getting up a variety of nourishing things, chiefly served in the form of beef tea and chicken broth and milk, perhaps, are all an invalid should care for, writes Jeanette Young, in the New York World. Far be it from truth, for there is no appetite so difficult to cater to as that of the convalescent. Here are a few simple recipes for the use of the home nurse:

One pound of solid beef, one ounce of butter, one onion, one quart water and one teaspoon of salt. Cut the beef into dice and place it with the other ingredients in a stew pan, and stir until all melts together and forms a thin gravy, then add the water and simmer three-quarters of an hour, strain and cool, then remove grease. If beef tea be needed in haste, scrape the beef into fibers, cover it with boiling water and salt, cover closely, boil ten minutes and set in a bowl of ice water to cool; skim, warm again and serve. Extract of beef, if not too strong, and made with boiling water, is at times acceptable and convenient.

One calf's foot, three pints of water, one lump of sugar, yolk of one egg, teaspoon of butter, nutmeg and salt to taste. Stew the foot in the water with rind of half a lemon until the quantity is about half, skim carefully and set away to cool. Remove all fat and warm about half a pint, adding the butter, sugar and the nutmeg. Remove from the fire and stir in the beaten yolk, keep stirring, place back on the fire and let it thicken, but not boil, as that would curdle it. Serve in a covered cup with soda water.

One fresh fowl, one quart of water, one blade of mace, half an onion, a small bunch of sweet herbs, ten peppercorns and salt to taste. Joint the fowl, place it with the other ingredients in a clean saucepan and simmer gently one and a half hours, carefully skimming. Strain, cool and remove the grease, and warm as needed. If desired a spoonful of rice boiled in water may be added, also a little scalded, and finely chopped parsley. This is convalescent broth; for the very sick avoid all seasoning but salt.

One pound of scrag end of the neck of mutton, one onion, one-half a turnip, one bunch of herbs, three pints of water, pepper and salt to taste. Put all the ingredients in a stew pan; when it boils skim it carefully, cover and cook one hour; strain and cool. If desired, pearl barley boiled in water may be added, or scalded parsley. For "simple broth" leave out all seasoning but salt, and add a jointed fowl.

Clam broth may be purchased in bottles or easily made at home; the latter is more desirable. Wash 50 clams (small round variety), put in a kettle with a cup of cold water, cover and let steam until all are wide open, strain and cool the juice and it is ready for use. The clams may be placed in a rich cream dressing and served on toast for luncheon for the well ones of the family.

Oyster broth is best made by washing the shells and placing in a white glazed dripping pan, with half a cup of water, in a hot oven, and when all shells are open wide strain the juice over a dainty slice of buttered toast with a dash of pepper and serve. The oysters may be also used as suggested for the clams.

Apple Souffle. Boil a pint of milk with the pared rind of a lemon in it. Strain off the lemon-rind and put in three ounces of rice. Cook this slowly till the milk is absorbed. Add two ounces of castor sugar. Beat it well with a spoon to crush it, and next press the rice on the bottom and sides of a cake-tin, and let it dry in a cool oven. Have ready some nicely stewed apples which have been rubbed through a sieve; add to them the beaten yolks of two eggs and one ounce of butter. Stir over the fire to cook the eggs, but do not boil it. Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth and add lightly to the apples. Put it into the rice boiler, and bake in a quick oven about half an hour. It must be served immediately.---Montreal Herald.

Kitchen Towels. The most soiled of kitchen towels will become sweet and white with this treatment: Cover with cold water, put them at the back of the stove, add one tablespoonful of shaved castile soap and the juice of half a lemon. Let it come to a boil gradually and repeat the process. Rinse first in tepid then in cold water.

THE DINNER TABLE.

SIMPLE ADORNMENT NOW THE INVARIABLE RULE.

Era of Elaboration Has Passed, and the Up-to-Date Hostess Will Have Nothing But Simple Centerpieces.

Simplicity and refinement provide the keynote for the well appointed table of today. The era of plush centerpieces and satin ribbon sashes has passed away. So, too, has the looking glass lake, with china ducks and swans placidly resting on its surface and an island of ferns and flowers rising mountainously in the middle. Tall decorations, whether of flowers or potted plants, are, in fact, tabooed among up-to-date hostesses. There never was a shadow of reasonable excuse for their popularity. Nothing is more exasperating than to be seated at a table where one can only guess at the identity of one's opposite neighbor.

The present-day table appointments are exquisitely chaste. Linens embroidered in colors are seen only at luncheons, when no tablecloth is used. At dinner all the table napery is pure white, this being the only correct background for the glittering services of silver and cut glass. If wax tapers are used they are placed in low and rather broad holders of silver, bronze or porcelain, and are usually fitted with silk shades representing the flower predominating in the table decorations. Often, however, electric lights are substituted for candles, each bulb being concealed in the heart of a flower. These are much prettier than candles, and are less liable to accident.

The popular centerpiece for ordinary use is a low-growing fern, set in a squat jardiniere of silver or porcelain. There is no daintier ornament for the round table, and it has been discovered that the delicate fern fronds of soft green have a peculiarly harmonious effect, not only upon the table appointments, but upon the guests. Green is a restful color, and discordance simply cannot long exist where it is the dominant note. It blends, too, with gewgaws of all shades, while flowers of brilliant hue often seem to scream at the gay colors around the table.

Long-stemmed roses, carnations or chrysanthemums are sometimes strewn upon the tablecloth instead of being placed in vases.

If artistically arranged the effect is pleasing, but the flowers wither quickly. When long-stemmed blossoms are placed in vases the latter are invariably of transparent crystal, extremely slender, and too high to obscure the vision of those seated at the table. Moreover, not more than two or three blossoms at most are placed in each. A bouquet of flowers or a "set piece" of any kind, is never seen.

It is considered ill-bred nowadays to place fruit upon the table; consequently the once inevitable epoque, piled high with hothouse delicacies, is among the things that were and are not. Baskets of porcelain or crystal are now preferred to fruit dishes, and these, with the rest of the dessert service, are arranged upon the sideboard, whence they are transferred to the table when needed.

SUN BATHS FOR BEDDING.

Said to Be Guaranteed to Produce Healthy Sleep.

According to the latest health advisers, nothing induces healthy sleep like sun-bathed beds and bedding.

Instead of making your bed the first thing in the morning, take your mattress and bed nothing out into the garden, and lay them in the sun. Leave them long enough for the sweet fresh air and life-giving properties of the sun to be thoroughly absorbed, and to dispel the odors of the night.

Blankets are especially susceptible to bad odors, and if cleansed by the sun they renew the life-like elasticity of the natural wool which is so soothing to tired nerves. Moreover, it is astonishing how long sun-baked mattresses and pillows retain the sweet freshness of the outdoor world.

Japs to Have Great Navy.

Victoria, B. C.--Admiral Bellerophon has received by the steamer Bellerophon that the Japanese naval department has decided upon a naval programme for the improvement of the Japanese navy, the expansion to cover a period of eight years. The diet is asked to vote $125,000,000 for the purpose, of which $12,000,000 will be used to repair present vessels, among them the former Russian vessels captured and raised. Many of the vessels now in service will be replaced. The programme of the naval department will be to have a battleship squadron of eight vessels, representing the strongest and newest types, two armored cruiser squadrons of eight ships each and three fast cruiser squadrons of four ships each, representing a programme of shipbuilding for the next decade.

LIVES SNUFFED OUT; HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

Passenger Cars On Seaboard Line Plunge Into Open Draw of Bridge With Fearful Results.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 29--As details in yesterday's terrible wreck on an electric line, were received during last night they became more appalling. The total number of persons whose lives were snuffed out almost instantly will probably reach 66, with nearly a score of injured; several of whom it is thought will die. Forty-eight bodies have already been brought to the surface. There were 91 persons on the train. Twenty-five of this number has been accounted for which with the bodies already recovered makes the total 73. This leaves 19 unaccounted for and who are supposed to have been drowned. It is possible some of these may never be found. It is believed by divers that some of the bodies floated through broken windows but into the thorfare and were carried by swift current into the Atlantic. The thorfare is a small waterway a mile outside of this city. Several fishing schooners had just passed thru the drawbridge when the electric train bore in sight. Before the drawbridge could swing into

INDIANS ARE ON WARPATH

HE WAS HANDY WITH A KNIFE

Last Friday night there was a dance and a fight at the home of Mat Fields 12 miles west of Vinita. J. Jackson had been drinking, it is said; at least he was full of fight, and in his picking around for a fuss tackled F. Marang and called him some ugly names, after which Marang struck him. Jackson used a knife to good advantage on Marang, cutting a gash under his left arm and sliced his chin, causing him to bleed almost to death before getting to a surgeon.

Marang came to town this morning to see the officers of the law in reference to having a warrant issued for the arrest of Jackson.
